The run of hogs today was very good. The hogs offered was a little better than the average run yesterday, though the best hogs yesterday were better than the best today. The market opened active and 5 cents higher, and prices remained steady at this advance during the day. A good bunch today, averaging 286, brought $3.50, against a bunch averaging 336 at $3.50 yesterday. The tops that sold for $3.45 today were not as good hogs as the tops yester-day. Bulk sold at $3.25@3.40; light hogs and pigs, such as speculators buy, are off 10 cents. The market closed steady and active, and the demand is not near supplied.

An Elderly Devotee of Capid. Age has little effect on the hopes, aspi rations or disappointments of the huma neart, and elderly lovers, it seems, are as fickle as lads and lassies who stand at the threshold of mature existence. Alexander Johnston, of Pittsburg, Pa., aged 74, finds himself made defendant in a breach of promise suit. The plaintiff is Rose Ann Henderson, who is ten years his junior. She asks $10,000 damages, and asserts that Alex has transferred his affections to a lady who has seen but fifty summers.

There are earthquakes and earthquakes, but San Francisco's experience is peculiar, because she is a modern American city and her list of breakables is large and varied So every earthquake there leaves some curious memeatos. In 1839 the peculiar "clouded fracture" of Thomas Houseworth & Co.'s big window was of so much interest that photographs of it went all the world, but the recent earthquake there produced a fracture which reduces the

In the window of Inspector Seybolt's room in the Custom House was an extra heavy plate of glass, 36x18 inches. In it the quake made four long fractures, start-ing from each corner in a diagonal toward the center, but in the center there is a per-fect square, and around it six equal half squares. All the lines are as regular as if cut by a diamond, and now the manufacturers are anxious to know what law of crystallization caused such regularity. INSTRUCTIVE AND AMUSING READ-

The splashings and gurglings and sport of the great elephants at their morning bath in the frog pond on Boston Common is one of the favorite sights of Boston children

They cannot duck themselves all over as the traveled elephants do on Boston Common. Instead, they have to lie down and be patient while they are washed by their attendants. They turn themselves about very promptly to suit their convenience. The attendant rubs the hide with a piece of stone instead of a sponge, and if the stone slips out of his hand the elephant politely picks it up with his trunk and hands it back. After they have been well scrubbed the elephants give themselves a shower bath, using their trunks to dash the water upon themselves, and they can hit any part of their bodies with ease.

After the bath they form into a row, side by side, ready for breakfast. Each elephant has five bundles of straw at this meal, and each bundle has two pounds of rice in it. These bundles are laid down before the elephants. But they are not permitted to help themselves, because they would spill and scatter the rice. At the word "Feed!" each elephant raises its trunk. The attendant then lifts a bundle and lays it in the elephant's mouth. So the great elephants are fed like little babies by the sol-Ger nurses. Their supper is of sugar cane and coarse grass.
